WorkSafe First Aid at Work Instructor Upgrade Programme

Further Information

The WorkSafe First Aid at Work Instructor Upgrade programme is designed for those who want to provide HSE approved First Aid at Work training to their staff, customers or clients but do not currently have HSE approval.

This qualification will enable you to teach HSE approved First Aid at Work courses using WorkSafe materials and certification. (See note below)

The First Aid at Work Instructor Upgrade programme is designed to build on your existing knowledge as an approved WorkSafe First Aid Instructor and provide greater in-depth understanding and information on the First Aid at Work syllabus.

Qualification is also provided to enable independent assessment of First Aid at Work programmes. Full assessment material and procedures are provided along with opportunity to conduct at least one FAW assessment under guidance from a member of the WorkSafe Instructor Approvals Team.

As a WorkSafe approved FAW instructor and assessor you will be required to undertake at least one ongoing moderation visit per year by a member of the WorkSafe quality team.

Pre-requisites of attendance

- To hold WorkSafe approved instructor status. This may be achieved immediately prior to undertaking the FAW upgrade subject to a successful application and instructor assessment during the Instructor Development Programme.
- Ideally you should have a formal teaching/assessing qualification or training, coaching background. Relevant experience of teaching others should be evidenced. If not already held, the Instructor Action Plan may recommend obtaining a formal teaching/assessing qualification.
- You must hold a First Aid at Work certificate or recognised exemption.
- You must be able to accept delivery of training programmes using WorkSafe methodology and HSE first aid protocols that may differ from those which you currently practice.

NOTE: The WorkSafe Instructor Development Programme will enable the instructor to deliver programmes awarded by WorkSafe Training Systems. The instructor qualification does not necessarily give an award to deliver training programmes awarded by other organisations. Individual organisations are responsible for their own instructor approvals although many will award APL for attendance on this programme.
